

THE EMERGENT OF FEMINISM

¹H.SESHAGIRI, ²DR M.RAVICHAND

Abstract

No creation in the world is without argument and movement. The society itself is the posterior. Even feminism is no exception. Feminist literature is a literary trend that has emerged with the idea that women should describe their experiences and feelings from a woman's perspective. Feminists allege that women are oppressed in the patriarchal system and that sexuality and fertility are patriarchal relationships. Feminist literature began with the aim of proving existence, intending to eradicate masculinity, protecting women's equal rights and freedoms in all spheres, and preventing women from falling prey to superstition. Feminism is a surge, a worldview, a social ideology. They are all feminists who can think on behalf of women! Feminism is a protest against patriarchy and not against men. It has been prominent in some of the arguments that have emerged in the journey to confront discrimination that has become problematic. Feminists freely express their feelings, their language style. No matter how many poetic movements came in literature, women were not taken into consideration. When 1975 - 85 was declared the "International Decade of Women" by the United Nations. In the West, especially in the United States, the woman Liberation Struggle (Women's Lib) began.

Keyword: Feminism - age of modern - literary tendencies - literature- patriarchal.

I. Introduction

The term feminism is a scope of social developments, political developments, and philosophies that plan to characterize, build up, and accomplish the genders' political, financial, individual, and social uniformity. By looking at the phrases, one can notice some of the main ideas and goals of feminism. There has been some discussion in the early days of this poetry, which seeks women's emancipation or women's consciousness. Feminism? Can men also write? It is a mainstay. Men cannot invent women's experiences as superior to women. So many people think that what women write should be considered feminist literature. Nobody forbade such men to write feminist literature. Observers believed that feminist solidarity literature could be viewed as the work of men who sympathized with women, invoking women's consciousness, and emancipating women. This is the difference between feminist literature and feminist solidarity literature. This article is intended to show the essential elements of the emergent of feminism like social, political, and religious events of national and international.

The patriarchal system

The patriarchal system has created artificial human relationships in society. It was at that stage that culture became a monogamous marriage. The same has blossomed into a patriarchal system. This patriarchal ideology has been the foundation for thousands of years. Yet there has been some talk in recent years about the long-standing patriarchal system of women being subjugated by the patriarchal system in every country, regardless of these differences. In this case, one of the feminists' radical feminists attempted to define Patriarchy in a broader sense. Radical feminists believe that the patriarchal system is derived from the ideological political commentary on the sexual orgasm in this sexually constructed society.

¹RESEARCH SCHOLAR IN ENGLISH, JNTUA, ANANTAPUR, AP, INDIA

²PROFESSOR OF ENGLISH, SVNCE, TIRUPATHI, AP, INDIA

Male-Dominated System and the Patriarchal System

The patriarchal ideology and the male-dominated ideology are considered as one today. This is real if it feels gross. However, a closer look at these two makes some difference. We recognize that authoritarianism is the Patriarchy of the male-dominated by the totalitarian. However, the male authority's dominance is not that of the man in the family but the man in the family. That may be the male husband. Maybe a son, an elder, a younger brother, a grandfather, a father, a man; they can be any rows. If he was a man, put on. Receiving the above dictatorships is a significant aspect of Patriarchy. It is a sad situation that not only the ordinary male world but also the famous philosophers and politicians around the world are showing a fondness for Patriarchy and treating women as inferior.

One of the world's most famous philosophers, Plato felt that 'women are enemies of friendship, women are naturally tempted, and women are symbolic of sins that are drawn in beautiful colors.' 'Rousseau is a philosopher all over Plato, and all-around Plato in disrespecting women.

"Women do not love any art, women have no knowledge of it, and women are talented," Rousseau said. India has no shortage of philosophers who disrespect women.

Adi Shankar was the foremost among Indian philosophers. Shankar does not want to study standard texts like the Vedas. He banned women.

"Fat, Pig, Dog, Slob, Disgusting animal." These are just some of the names that Donald Trump, The President of the United States, has been widely called out for his objectification of women - he tends to criticize them for their looks - and sexist remarks.

"She Looks like She'd Be an Animal in Bed: Dehumanization of Drinking Women in Social Contexts," Jeanine Skorinko, professor of Social Science & Policy Studies. The idea that women do not have the power to take it is an intention. Hence 'on. He forbade women to be independent. As mentioned above, the details reveal how the views of philosophers and trustees around the world are concerned with women.

Internal and External suppression

The suppression of the women and the refusal of them is all part of the oppression. The category of the oppressed, that is, the pressure of the legitimate rights of the feminine, the enjoyment of the masculine is also a factor. The oppression of post-masculine femininity appears mainly in two forms. Are women, even men? However, suppressing their personalities, liberties, and rights without allowing them to live as human beings is a significant part of external oppression.

Violence, mistreatment of feminism through power, and lower-class citizens' treatment are all the rage of external oppression. Every aspect of a woman's life is owned by a man, living within a man, and living the same experience as the real woman. One of the traits of patriarchal ideology is to keep women from becoming independent and relying on masculinity.

Family - Society

Generally, treat the family as a 'private unit.' Feminists, however, view the family as a social unit. Another primary goal of feminists is to make them feel that way. There are reasons. In identifying this nationality, the product aspects are taken into account in the annual financial plans and various branches' funding. The same policy is implemented in all the world's countries. Sexual satisfaction, fertility, child-rearing, and household chores are not recognized as part of the product. They are not worth adding. These are not considered in calculating nationalism. Therefore, the financial loss in the annual plans is a significant loss for women. Some feminists say that there is no women's emancipation. So the battle for supremacy in women's fertility society power production also takes place in the struggle for dominance. The most important proposals of the Socialist Feminists' political analysis that gender inequalities in the system involved in the production field, just representation of workers, receive inadequately. Fertility issues, such as the need for the democratic process. Have found that sexual gratification, fertility, bedding, and housekeeping are not considered part of the product and are not valued. However, a few years ago, the highest court in India recognized three thousand per month. As a result of decades of legitimate struggles by feminists, the court may consider the verdict as an achievement of my own. Feminism means no anti-men movement. It is not just a movement for equality with men

The social sector

The social sector is not just a group of men and women. The community should consider the whole of their interactions, obligations, customs, and affairs. The history of human social evolution has hundreds of thousands of millions of years. To this end, the history of this evolutionary phase is identified with the historic step. There are many differences between men and women in society today. There are many more contradictions. However, before the historical stage, there were no differences between men and women in any human society, group, or group. Groups and races felt that the differences between men and women physically were natural. There is no longer a feeling that one woman is more or the other less. But there were some differences and contradictions in different parts of the world, such as groups' presence and the intermarriage between groups. No matter how many contradictions there were, in historical times, women were treated equally with men. Never, in any case, has it been reduced. In the day's collective life, the woman was involved in all things equally with the man. However, following the natural law of the body, the woman occasionally has some obstacles.

In pregnant cases, the woman's condition was a little more complicated. Not just in the workplace. Women may face some difficulties when migrating from one area to another. However, it is noteworthy that women were not looked down upon in the historical stage of the day. In the post-apocalyptic period, society has been stabilized for many reasons. Artificial rituals, insistence, and rituals have replaced genuine human relationships that existed until then. All these developments combined led to the rise of the patriarchal system.

The Status of Women in the Religious Arena.

Religion depends on the culture of that country. The culture of any nation rests primarily on the mainstream religion, followed by the people in that country. How many countries in the world have all cultures? All cultures have several beliefs. The number of religions worldwide is small, but the number of interactions in every religion is high. These contradictions are a significant testament to the cultural contradictions that have occurred, and the lack of differences and contradictions in a woman's view of how many females there are in the world. We can see that all of these religions are involved in the oppression of feminism. This is because all these religions form a masculine society. Let us consider some of the racial conditions in these religious fields. Christianity is the largest religion in the world. Observers have analyzed how Christianity has treated women. According to Christianity, a woman is a sinner. A woman was created to make man happy. The Bible passage says, persevere. It felt like they were moving. The line that God slept with Adam and created this man by his side is known worldwide.

Moreover, the root cause of man's misery is another religion that is strong in the world.

One of the monasteries in the nirvana is also competing in the renunciation of women. Critics have been very vocal about the adaptation of this. Bastinado brought women to life again. There is a rule that a Christian should also wear a mask properly, even when a devotee is in a place of worship. The Muslim, however, has to carry this burden on all occasions. Perseverance has allowed this in the church to become so overwhelming, yet, had entered the women Mosque.

According to Islam, women should always be in subjection to a man. Even in sexual life, man is free, and when the wife seeks out the husband without her consent, she must oblige. The husband always has the power to punish his wife. If the husband and wife are separated, the husband cannot breastfeed his child without permission. According to the Islamic religion, women are equated with objects that provoke men. That is why Islam always analyzes them.

Moreover, Islam also gave men the power to move us, and when women sought them in the land, such as men's agricultural lands. Indian culture has a special place in the cultures of the countries of the world. The practice of the natives is Vaidika Dharma or Hinduism. The condition of the woman in this act is like smokes. In Hinduism, the form of feminine forms of goddesses like Saraswati and Lakshmi for concepts like reading (knowledge) and wealth. But for hundreds and thousands of years, women in this country have been deprived of education and wealth. This is a strange situation.

There are many occasions in the Vedic chanting and mythologizing humor that humiliate the female race. The name of religion, any period, any region, whatever their differences, contradictions, and interrelationships; considering the above, it is precise that they were all the same in women's case. Critics recall that the ruling elite has proposed these religions, and the ruling class still orders the intellectuals. The sale of girls to Arab countries has increased recently. A minister said it was not wrong. In recent times women have stepped into the external world on par with men. Women are also holding the highest positions in the field. In the name of tradition, various religions are restricted to women and bedside. From then on, the social system and the restoration of women are bound in iron. Women are made of personality and non-existence. Transform females into beautiful dolls that the male can enjoy.

Major International Events

There may be differences in the general movement of the mass movements. But, wherever there is an undercurrent. There must be acknowledged that the uprisings are occurring around the globe, in general, culturally and in particular, in the long-standing patriarchal world. But the natural rebellion, in this case, did not occur in the calculations. Some of the reasons for this are women under pressure, so the key is to revolt. This has led to many international and national movements, uprisings and protests, recalling some of them. Two major trends can be cited as the main reason for the modern transformation of the social system worldwide: the Industrial Revolution in England and France. The French Revolution took place. The French Revolution was a movement that spurred many trends in the social sphere, in particular, on emancipation. As a result of this revolution of 1789, feelings of liberty, equality, and goodwill prevailed among the world's people. The new ideas sprouted in the intellectuals were the remnants of the monarchical system of the monarchy.

To equalize all human rights in a free environment. The movement that led to these drastic changes was mainly the French Revolution. In this case, there is another essential point which we should note. Simultaneously, advanced education in the social sciences and sciences, which had come into effect, was preceded by the progressive revolution in collective families' dismantling. Dedicated to the occupational family system. For the above reasons, it is the first step towards the social life that is still intertwined between the four streams. Women have joined hands in many political and social movements undertaken by men. As a result, many obscurity layers that have been around for thousands of years, especially around the lives of women, have begun to disappear. 18th and 19th centuries Researchers have considered centuries of women's development in world history. There have been some women's liberation movements in almost all countries of the world. The first women's liberation struggles to change the world took place in Bangladesh, France, and the United States. "Many authors have emerged from such women's liberation movements around the world. Several valuable texts have been proclaimed. The newest scientific proposals on gender relations have been presented during the human evolution stage. It is necessary in this case to remind the authors of some of them.

'Mary Wollstonecraft' - She is the author of a turning point in women's emancipation after the French Revolution. Her book "A Vindication of the Rights of Woman," written in 1792, has historical significance. The book mainly discusses the need for education for women, independence, and economic freedom. The book also contemplates the dual righteousness between men and women.

'Olympe de Gouges' - (1748 - 1793) was a courageous woman who fought for women's suffrage in the French countryside. She also reviewed her book, "The Declaration of the Rights of Woman and the Female Citizen."

"Simon De Beauvoir" is viewed as one of the principal originators of the cutting edge women's activist development, predominantly for her milestone text, Le Deuxième Sexe (The Second Sex). She stated: "All persecution makes a condition of war."

'Germaine Greer' Most well-known for The Female Eunuch, which contended that ladies have been quelled and estranged from their bodies and sexuality, and that sexual freedom is the way to ladies' freedom. A pioneer of the second influx of the women's development of the Sixties and Seventies.

"Bell hooks," pen name 'Gloria Jean Watkins' American researcher whose work inspected the differed impression of dark women and dark women essayists and the advancement of women's activist personalities.

'Toni Morrison', the Nobel laureate in writing whose smash hit work investigated black personality in America.

'Alice Walker', an American author whose books, short stories, and sonnets are noted for their quick treatment of African American culture.

Socialist Women's Movement

The International Socialist Women's Movement of Woman for Peace and Freedom 'was held in March 1925 under Alexandra's leadership. There have been many instances where women have been accompanied by men and women to win women's liberation. William Thompson was one of them. He was a native of the United States of America, and in 1825 she called for women's struggle. William Thompson's message to women is: "Come on, women, sleep. "The Origin of the Family, Private Property and the State "by Engels, a famous Marxist philosopher, is the book that opens the door to new ideas around the world. It was announced in 1883. This book reviews all the social aspects of the public and life. The nature of the masculine ideology behind feminine relationships and the emergence of various forms of marriage. There are also. So far, there have been only a few domestic incidents of women's emancipation. Such things are lacking some more. As a result of this, some of the movements and the three discussions, a theoretical form of feminism was formed. Feminism is the result of many international and national struggles, resulting in many more conversations and characterized by several scientific battles and resistance movements on behalf of women who have long been oppressed by male ideologies

Expansion of the feminist movement

Politics is a political process where women and men work together to shape the existing exploitation system - feminism. Considering these definitions we have examined so far, one thing is exact. Feminism: Different Trends The different underlying tendencies in feminism are the same, though the philosophically underlying principle is the same. There were no reasons that emerged from time to time in a way that nobody expected. Not at all. The feminist ideology has been shaped by the events, discussions, and subcultures of many long-standing movements worldwide.

Several different theories, experiences, and perceptions of other groups and societies were involved in the process. That is why many trends in feminism are naturally every result. Let us introduce some of the major ones. Liberalism is also known as bourgeois feminism and Liberal feminism. This is a trend that was formed under the influence of the French Revolution. The main point of liberalism is that the equality of liberties should be liberal for both men and women. Traditional Marxist Feminism, known as Communist Feminism, believes that women should have equal participation in men and women's constitution. Women should not be discriminated against in terms of sex in matters of social freedom and social responsibility.

II. Conclusion

In the early days, feminists fought for democratic rights such as property rights, political rights, contraception, and the right to divorce. Some of the later feminist ideas changed. They are not limited to just legal rights and reform. Overcoming them has contributed significantly to the liberation of women as a whole. The general view seems to be that the masculine ideology is just that of men. However, they found that it was not only in men but also women. Feminists recognize that the networks and morphological characteristics are different. For the first time, the difference between sex and gender is illustrated by the famous author Simon De Beauvoir. In her book 'Second Sex,' the author states that "women are not born but they are made." The words are related to sex: every person born to grow up socially and culturally as women, there are many differences between men in many of these things. There is no risk if these are just differences. These are women who are inferior and give men the lead. Women at the bottom and men at the top are retained.

Reference

1. Mary and Hemming, Clare, "The Sage Handbook of Feminist Theory," Sage, 2014, UK.
2. Marie Withers Osmond and Barrie Thorne, "Feminist Theories the Social Construction of Gender in Families and Society," Plenum Press, 1993 New York.
3. Wendy Lynne Lee, 'Contemporary feminist theory and activism: six global issues,' Broadview Press Ltd, 15 February 2010, New York, USA.

4. Jane Flax. "Postmodernism and gender relations in feminist theory." In L. Nicholson (Ed.), Feminism/postmodernism (pp. 39-62). Signs, Vol. 12, No. 4, 1990,
5. Deborah L. Rhode, "Feminist Critical Theories," Stanford Law Review, Vol. 42, No. 3, Feb. 1990,
7. Kevin Harrison and Tony Boyd, "Understanding political ideas and movements," Research Gate, July 2018
8. Camille Paglia, "Feminism Past and Present: Ideology, Action, and Reform," A lecture delivered on 10 April 2008 as the keynote address of a conference, The Legacy and Future of Feminism, at Harvard University. arion 16.1 spring/summer 2008.
9. Kyra Gemberling, "Feminine Agendas: The historical evolution of feminism as reflected in the content of American women's magazines," Elon University The Elon Journal of Undergraduate Research in Communications, Vol. 5, No.2, 2014.